SUPREME COURT TO HEAR COAL CASE

RUSSIA BALKS AT TROOP POLL IN UN SESSION

Unexpectedly Refuses To Tab Armed Forces on Home Soil.

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Dec. 9—Russia unexpectedly refused today to accept a proposal for a United Nations inventory of armed troops at home.

In a surprise move, Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov demanded deletion of a home troop census from a resolution already approved by the powerful 54-member UN political committee.

His action, taken at an assembly plenary session at Flushing Meadow Park, threatened to reopen the whole question of troop dispositions.

Previously, at the committee stage, Molotov had agreed to taking census of both domestic forces and those on foreign soil.

Delegates who had come to the session prepared to debate the British plan were so surprised and unprepared for Molotov's action that the plenary session was recessed until tomorrow at 4 p. m.

When Molotov climbed to the rostrum at the opening of the troop census debate delegates expected him to continue his remarks to the British proposal for verification of figures to be submitted by all members by Jan. 1. Instead, he began with a declaration of the importance of an inventory on troops abroad, particularly those on member states' soil and then argued any counting of home troops would only "complicate the question of troops on foreign soil."

U. S. Labor Picture Best in Months As Coal Miners Return

By The Associated Press

The nation's labor picture today was the brightest in months.

Most of John L. Lewis' 400,000 AFL United Mine Workers were digging soft coal again after the dramatic ending of their 17-day walkout which threatened collapse of the national economy.

In Rockford, Ill., 900 workmen at the J. I. Case Co., idle for nearly a year, started back to work. Of four Case plants struck last Dec. 26 only the dispute at Racine, Wis. was still on.

The Allis-Chalmers' Boston plant was in production for the first time since April 30 following an agreement with the CIO United Electrical Workers.

The CIO United Packinghouse Workers and the Cudahy Packing Company were expected to sign a new work contract in Chicago today. Previously, the union had laid plans for strike action against Cudahy and other major packers.

But the labor picture had some dark spots, including:

Threat of a repetition of the tugboat strike which earlier this year tied up New York's huge harbor traffic.

Closing of all public schools in Pawtucket, R. I., following a strike threat by most of city's 430 teachers.

City Business Back in Stride As Coal Emergency Is Ended

Closed Factories Resume Work Today; Christmas Lights To Go On Tuesday Night.

Rapid steps to return Marion's industrial, business and social life to normalcy were being taken here today following the termination of the nationwide soft coal strike Saturday. Briefly developments were as follows:

Employes of four Marion industrial concerns, the Osgood Co., the Alloy Cast Steel Co., General Excavator Co. and Commercial Steel Casting Co. returned to work this morning.

Seven passenger trains through Marion, scheduled to be taken out of service today will continue their runs as usual.

Marion's downtown Christmas decorations will be lighted tomorrow night.

Express and postal restrictions were off and normal shipping was resumed. Express and postal officials reported shipments were not unusually heavy today since restrictions were in effect only a short time.

St. Mary School To Close

St. Mary school will close Friday for the Christmas holidays as previously announced. Father William J. Spickerman said the reopening date for the school will depend on how soon coal can be obtained.

County commissioners reported the new working schedule at the courthouse, closing county offices at 4 p. m. daily and all day Saturdays, would be in effect until additional coal supplies were received.

Practically all employes of the Osgood Co., Allow Cast Steel Co. General Excavator Co. and Commercial Steel Casting Co. were back at work this morning, company officials reported. No working time was lost, since employes of the four firms worked the night shift Friday and do not ordinarily work Saturdays or Sundays. The layoff, brought on by the coal shortage and freight embargo, was to have gone into effect today. The layoff would have idled approximately 800 employes starting today.

Yule Lights To Go On

Chamber of Commerce officials said downtown Christmas lights would be turned on tomorrow night. Crews of the Marion division of the Ohio Public Service Co. were making necessary electrical hookups today and will complete their work by tomorrow light. Dimout restrictions *for downtown stores also were off. Lights in many of the downtown stores blazed Saturday night following the announcement that the coal strike had been settled.

Railroad passenger service continued on schedule. Officials at the Union station reported there was no interruption in schedule since the seven passenger trains through Marion were not to have been taken out of service until today. Runs for two Erie express trains, No. 11 and No. 12, taken out of service last week, will be resumed. No. 11, westbound will be returned to service Wednesday and No. 12 eastbound, will be returned tomorrow.

Officials of the Erie railroad stated traffic was rapidly getting back to normal here. Practically all of the excess freight which came into local rail yards in a last minute rush before the embargo was clamped on, has been cleared away. Within the next few days crews, yard men and shop workers will be back on their jobs, Erie officials said.

But Marion residents still will have to go easy on their coal piles for another two weeks. Marion dealers still have no coal, and probably will not receive shipments of any size before another 10 days, Charles Buente, president of the Marion Retail Coal Dealers associaiton stated. He urged Marionites to continue conserving coal until additional supplies are available.

STORE HIT BY $3,000 BLAZE

Roof Destroyed and Hardware Stock Damaged at Eastern Edge of City.

Fire destroyed the roof of a one-story hardware store owned by Ferdinand Lawrence on the south side of Harding highway just east of the city limits Sunday about 1:30 a. m.

Damage to the building and its contents was estimated at $3,000 by city firemen. The roof was destroyed and merchandise was ruined by water. The alarm was turned in by a passing motorist. City firemen laid 1,700 feet of hose from the last hydrant on East Center street to the burning building.

Defective wiring was believed to have caused the fire. The building was formerly used as a market by Mr. Lawrence but was converted into a hardware store a few months ago when a new building was erected nearby. The Lawrence's, who live nearby, were aroused by the sound of automobile horns blown by motorists to raise an alarm.

Fire Chief Owen A. Sifritt said the fire was the second largest the city fire department has answered in the township since a recent agreement made between the city and township. The largest, he said, occurred about a week ago when a house just outside the western city limits burned to the ground with a loss of $8,000.

Rev. Hollensen Gets Toledo Church Call

At the close of Sunday's morning service at Emanuel Lutheran church, Rev. M. E. Hollensen, pastor, informed the congregation that he received recently a request from a Toledo congregation that he consider becoming pastor there. At a congregational meeting conducted immediately by Carl T. Campbell, an officer of the church, a unanimous vote was given Rev. Hollensen to remain as pastor here. There will be a special congregational meeting next Sunday at which time Rev. Hollensen will return his answer to the congregation, it was announced.

Ohio's Former Governor Cox Tells Own Story in Autobiography Published Today

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., Dec. 9—James M. Cox told his story today.

Cox, three times governor, the Democratic party's choice for president in 1920, and now publisher of newspapers in Ohio, Georgia and Florida, told it in his autobiography, "Journey Through My Years," published today by Simon and Schuster of New York.

A high-point of the book is Cox's own reporting of what happened to start Franklin D. Roosevelt on the road to the presidency which Cox failed to win because of the post-war Republican landslide which elected another Ohioan, Warren G. Harding of Marion, to the post.

Cox writes that when he learned of his own nomination, his campaign manager, Edmond H. Moore, asked for his choice as the Democratic nominee for vice president.

Although he did not know Roosevelt personally, Cox discloses, he asked for him because he met the geographical requirement. * * * he was recognized as an independent, * * * and Roosevelt was a well-known name."

"I knew that his relations with the organization in his state (New York) were not friendly....This made it necessary for Mr. Moore to consult Charles F. Murphy, head of New York's organization. * * * Murphy had gone to bed but Moore delivered the message. I can quote Murphy's exact words: 'I don't like Roosevelt. He is not well known in the country, but Ed, this is the first time a Democratic nominee for the presidency has shown me courtesy. That's why I would vote for the devil himself if Cox wanted me to. Tell him we will nominate Roosevelt on the first ballot as soon as we assemble.'

"Mr. Roosevelt knew nothing of all this."

Cox also tells his story of the futile world monetary and economic conference, in London in 1933. He was vice chairman of the American delegation.

He calls the book a record of "What I saw, not what I did, and a report on "the men I knew."

Former Nazi Liner Europa Sinks in Port

By The Associated Press

LE HAVRE, FRANCE, Dec. 9—The German-built liner Europa, renamed the Liberte by the French, snapped her moorings in a gale-driven tidal wave today, gashed her side against harbor wreckage and sank into the mud on a shallow side of the Le Havre basin.

The 49,746-ton vessel, assigned to France as war reparations, settled with a heavy list upon recession of the tidal wave, which had caused the sea to rise three feet above normal. However, a rising tide later righted her, indicating she had retained some buoyancy.

French line officials expressed hope that the Liberte, dogged by bad luck since she was launched at Hamburg as a North German Lloyd liner in August, 1928, could be refloated.

Tore Vessel Loose

The sea and wind tore the vessel from the French line docks and shoved her across the basin, with anchors dragging, in less than three minutes. Wreckage staved in the Liberte's side at the level of the machine room and water flooded through the gaping hole.

However, there was no loss of life. All aboard were taken ashore at 8 a. m. Fire fighting companies stood by.

The storm harassed other vessels along the waterfront.

A United States naval launch broke her moorings near the citadel and sank. The French liner Palmyre snapped her lines and drifted, but was brought under control without damage.

Sunken Hulk Blamed

Harbor observers expressed belief the long-rusting hulk of the sunken French liner Paris caused the damage to the Liberte. French line representatives said later, however, they were "not sure" as to what wreckage was responsible.

The loss of the Liberte would seriously handicap the French line in its bid for passenger traffic. It has only one other large vessel, the 43,000-ton Ile de France. The next biggest is the 23,000-ton De Grasse. No other French liner is of more than 17,000 tons.

The sinking occurred the day after search ships found an oil spot marking the watery 1,000-yard deep grave of the submarine 23-26 which had been unreported since it left Toulon Thursday with 16 men aboard.

Like the Liberte, the 23-26 was

BARGAINING RIGHTS OF FOREMEN UPHELD

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—The supreme court today in effect upheld the right of foremen to join unions and bargain collectively with employers.

The tribunal refused to review a lower court decision which held that foremen are covered by the national labor relations act. The effect of the refusal was to leave this decision undisturbed.

The supreme court gave no reason for its refusal to review the decision.

A final ruling by the high tribunal was asked by the Packard Motor Company of Detroit. The company contended foremen were not "employes" within the meaning of the act.

Packard's contention was overruled by the national labor relations board in a 2 to 1 vote. The board ordered Packard to bargain with the Foremen's Association of America.

The U. S. circuit court in Cincinnati by a 2 to 1 vote upheld the board. The circuit court majority said that "although he (the foreman) is a part of the front line of management * * * he is an employe with reference to wages and conditions of employment."

Appealing, Packard said the ruling "will throw the foremen in the union stream with the very men they supervise and subject them to union pressure. Management will never know whether the decision of a foreman was dictated by union leanings or pressure or in the interest of management."

The company cited the act's definition of "employes" as including "any person acting in the interest of any employer directly or indirectly."

Communists Trail In New French Election

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Dec. 9—The centrist Popular Republican Movement (MRP), vying with the Communist party for control of France, had a slight edge over its rival today in parliament's still incomplete upper house after another Sunday election.

Electoral colleges and a special election commission which yesterday decided 214 of the 315 seats in the council of the republic gave 62 seats to the MRP and 61 to the Communists—in each case less than a third.

RAIL UNION MERGER DISCUSSION GOES ON

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Dec. 9 — The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen prepared to end its wage conference today amid talk of a merger with the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

David B. Robertson, president of the firemen and enginemen, said a poll of 25,000 of the union's 118,000 members showed 95 per cent favored a single brotherhood to represent locomotive workers.

The poll, started two months ago, will be continued until all members have expressed an opinion the brotherhood leader declared.

No action could be taken, however, until the two unions hold their next convention, spokesmen for both brotherhoods said. The Firemen and Enginemen will meet in San Francisco in July while the Locomotive Engineers convene here in March.

Officials of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers said they would have no comment until a definite proposal was made.

The Firemen and Enginemen did not join in the national railroad strike conducted last spring by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

All wage discussion of the Firemen and Enginemen has been conducted behind closed doors so far with no announcement of progress. The conference started a week ago.

VET FACES CHARGES IN WIFE'S DEATH

By The Associated Press

ATHENS, O., Dec. 9—Prosecutor Gordon Gray said today he would file first degree murder charges against Jewell Peters, 25, student-veteran at Ohio university, whose wife, Leah Mae Peters, 21, was found dead in their trailer home last Wednesday.

Gray said Police Chief J. B. Grogan signed an affidavit for the charges after pathologists at the state laboratory in Columbus reported Mrs. Peters' death "due to asphixia." Grogan said previously he believed the couple was poisoned.

Another student discovered Peters seriously ill beside the body of his wife when he went to their trailer near the Athens county fairgrounds to deliver their mail.

Peters recovered but Gray said he appeared "confused." He quoted Peters as saying he became ill and "must have blacked out" until roused by the other student.

Coroner John H. Elias estimated Mrs. Peters had been dead about six hours when the tragedy was discovered.

The truck was driven by William H. Copeland, 27, of 183 Wallace street. He told the state patrol the accident occurred when he slowed up for a stop sign.

Patch was taken by Winters ambulance to City hospital, but died soon after arriving there. He suffered fractures of the neck, jaw and leg.

He was employed as a New York Central railroad section hand at Mt. Victory, and was returning to Richwood from work when the accident happened.

He leaves a wife, the former Bessie McMahon, whom he married March 15, 1937, and four children, Max, Lester, Linda and Louise, all at home in Richwood. He was a Navy veteran of seven and one half years, and served in World War II.

Coal Miners Back at Work After 17 Days

Desperately Needed Fuel on Way as Crippling Strike Ends.

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 9—The soft coal miners trooped back to their jobs today and resumed production of desperately needed fuel, ending a 17-day work stoppage that crippled the nation's economy.

Spear-heading the back-to-work movement by the 400,000 United Mine Workers were the diggers in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, which have about one-half of the soft coal miners. Early reports from these fields showed miners generally obeyed John L. Lewis' order to return to work, although full production may not be reached before Tuesday or Wednesday.

In the coal-rich Pittsburgh area only a couple large mines were reported idle and unionists explained work would be resumed at these as soon as the official work notice had been received from the union.

Among the mines re-opening were captive pits of such steel corporations as U. S. Steel, Jones and Laughlin and Republic Steel.

Fuel Sorely Needed

Fuel was sorely needed by industry and to warm homes and schools across the country.

The back-to-work movement, which came after nearly 300,000 other workers had been idled and complete economic paralysis was threatened, started yesterday at three small Ohio pits.

Clean-up crews and shifts of "cat-eye" cutters worked through the night at many mines to ready them for the 8 a. m. shift today—the first operations in 18 days.

92 Per Cent Return

President John P. Busarello of UMW District 5, embracing Pittsburgh, said 92 per cent of his 20,000 miners voted to return.

"They're plenty sore over the raw deal we got from the government," Busarello said, "but they are going back because Lewis requested them to go back."

William Hynes, UMW chief in the Uniontown, Pa., coal fields, said all pits there were expected back in operation within two days, "because the union and miners still are squarely behind Lewis and always will be."

Full Production Delayed

West Virginia's vast coal industry was not expected to reach full production until mid-week because maintenance work had been discontinued in some sections during the long shutdown.

The miners generally were calm and quiet as they prepared to go back to work. But many echoed the words of one Library, Pa., digger who moaned:

"I hate to go back with nothing to show but three weeks' lost pay. And we'll probably have to do it all over again next April."

Calling off the walkout halted a rising tide of unemployment and ended drastic dim-outs over more than a score of states.

Railroads, steel and other coal dependent industries prepared for a quick recovery from the almost disastrous effects of the walkout of 400,000 miners.

Rescinding of layoff orders that would have sent unemployment soaring into the millions within a few weeks assured many of a merry, instead of the bleak Christmas in prospect a few days ago.

A spokesman for the Tri-State Industrial association whose members employ tens of thousands in Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia, reported the mine resumption would prevent furloughing of about 100,000 workers in fabricating plants.

JAN. 14 SET AS DAY FOR AIRING OF ARGUMENTS

Decision Can Come Any Monday Thereafter; Tribunal Heeds Plea for Speed.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—The supreme court today agreed to give a quick ruling on the validity of the contempt conviction of John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers, in the soft coal strike.

The high court set Tuesday, Jan. 14, for hearing arguments by counsel for both sides.

A decision could come any Monday after arguments are completed.

The high court acted on a government plea that—because of the public interest involved—the case be taken out of the hands of the U. S. court of appeals here and speeded to a final, "authoritative" decision.

Lewis and the union were convicted for contempt in ignoring a U. S. district court order intended to head off the 17-day soft coal strike which was ended last Saturday. Their fines totaled $3,510,000.

Today's action means a final decision can be expected a month or two earlier than if the issues involved had been decided first by the court of appeals.

Lewis in calling off the strike at least until March 31, said future contract negotiations will be "within the limitations of the findings of the supreme court." He said one of the reasons he ended the strike was to enable the court in considering his case to be "free from public pressure superinduced by the hysteria and frenzy of an economic crisis."

Jubilant over the weekend surrender of Lewis which ended the 17-day economy-wrecking walkout, officials familiar with the government's legal strategy expressed confidence that the top court of the land would take jurisdiction for an early showdown.

Put on Regular Calendar

But these officials as well as union aides said they expected that with the strike over the court probably will put the case on its regular calendar, rather than docket it ahead of other matters. This might put off a decision until February.

After Lewis' sudden and dramatic capitulation Saturday, the nation hustled to get industrial wheels turning full speed again.

While this is dependent on the diggers, there was every sign the miners were heeding the order of their shaggy-browed leader. Lewis told them there should "be no hesitation" about getting back to the pits.

Gives Cancellation Reasons

In cancelling the strike after indicating time and again that he planned a fight to the finish, Lewis gave these reasons:

1. The supreme court, in considering the contempt conviction and possibly whether the miners had a right to void their contract with the government, should be "free from public pressure superinduced by the hysteria and frenzy of an economic crisis."

2. Public necessity requires the quantitative production of coal during such period."

Lewis beat his unexpected retreat even as President Truman was at work on a bare-knuckle radio speech which he had planned to deliver last night. Mr.

Ohio Coal Mines Seen Going At Full Output by Midnight

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 9—Ohio's coal mines, returning to work after a 17-day industry-paralyzing strike, neared normal production today, and a United Mine Worker official predicted the pits would be going full tilt by midnight.

The Ohio Coal association at Bellaire reported production at 85 per cent of normal in the UMW's District 6, covering some 20,000 workers in Ohio and the northern West Virginia panhandle, with only two major diggings—Hanna Coal Co.'s Dungien mine near Bellaire and the Blaine shaft of the Loraine Coal and Dock Co.—still completely idle.

Adolph Pacifico, president of the UMW's district No. 6, said the local unions of these two shafts had scheduled meetings today and were expected to be "back on the job at both mines by midnight."

"Everything Looks Good"

Pacifico said "everything looks good" for a speedy return to normalcy throughout the district.

Miners at three pits formed the vanguard yesterday of some 18,000 Ohio coal diggers who approved a recommendation by United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis to end their work stoppage.

Operations began yesterday at the Powhatan Mining Co., Powhatan Point, the Rail and River Coal Co., No. 3 mine at Bellaire, and the Hanna Coal Co. Willow Grove mine at Neffs. Hauling of coal was expected today.

Six Pits Resume Work

Six major deep pits and three strip mines in the Hocking valley area resumed work today, a survey showed. The deep mines reporting working employ more than 1,100 men.

Those resuming work included: New York Coal Co.'s mine No. 28 at Chauncey and No. 52 at Crooksville; Hocking Valley Min-

INQUIRY INTO UNIONS ASKED

Senator Proposes Investigation To Determine Character of Organizations.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 — A congressional investigation of labor organizations to determine whether any of their leaders wields "autocratic power" was proposed today by Senator Lucas (D-Ill) as the nation's coal miners went back to work.

Lucas told a reporter he intended to urge the new congress to order a sweeping inquiry into the whole field of labor-management relations to "ascertain which of these labor organizations have democratic processes and which are run by one man."

The Illinois senator, who has been regarded by his colleagues as a staunch supporter of organized labor in the past, made it plain we wanted to aim such an investigation directly at John L. Lewis' control of the United Mine Workers

New Difficulties Seen

Lucas, saying congress ought not to be deterred in this because Lewis called off the mine walkout Saturday, noted that there may be new difficulties in this field next spring if the UMW fails to win a new contract by March 31.

"I definitely believe that under any circumstances congress ought to make an investigation of labor movements to find out if they are democratic or otherwise," Lucas said. "Once the workers know that the government is behind an attempt to remove autocratic power from men like Lewis, they will not be afraid to demand a voice in the affairs of their own union."

Lucas recalled that President Truman had urged last year that congress make an inquiry into labor-management relations. At that time, however, proponents of restrictive labor bills contended this was intended largely to forestall action on their proposals

Lessened Prospect

The general feeling among legislators appear to be that Lewis' action in ending the mine shutdown has lessened prospects for immediate passage of labor legislation when the new congress convenes Jan. 3 and that the lawmakers not only may move more slowly but less drastically.

But Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) told a reporter he thought a number of vital issues remain unsolved as a result of Lewis' attempt to terminate the miners' contract with the government and the resulting shutdown.

Similarly, Senator Wiley (R-Wis) called for action which would place the country in a position "where the public interest never again can be jeopardized by a repetition of what we have just come through."

Senator Millikin (R-Colo) said the end of the walkout would strengthen the hands of those who want to see "firm and well balanced labor relations legislation"

TO DIG WELLS FOR LA RUE WATER WORKS

Special to The Star

LA RUE—The LaRue council voted last Monday evening that a council committee secure an option on a tract of land on the Otis Boyd farm on the northwest edge of town as a location for the drilling of test wells for the proposed water works system for LaRue. An advancement of $4,500 was granted by the federal government to finance preparation of plans and specifications for the project, which is estimated to cost $128,400. To date $2,250 of the federal grant has been advanced.

Engineers from Alden Stilson and Associates of Columbus have completed preliminary surveys, including location of pipelines. Plans submitted to the council propose that two 8-inch diameter wells located approximately 100 feet apart be drilled into rock. The wells must be capable of supplying in excess of 100 gallons a minute. It is planned to equip each well with a deep weel turbine with individual pump house with the pump setting protected against flooding. If test wells prove satisfactory, two and one-half acres of land surrounding the wells would be purchased and a lease taken on water rights of eight or more acres. Plans also call for a 100,000 gallon elevated storage tank to be located on the Lingo lot near the depot. Blue prints will be made after necessary developments.

John M. Markey, LaRue mayor, announced that in the near future a public meeting would be held when complete plans for the proposed project would be presented.

OWU Student Goes From Delaware To $25,000 a Day Job

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, O., Dec. 8—From college campus to a $25,000 a day job was a short jump for Leighton Wiant who dropped out of Ohio Wesleyan university a few months ago to work for a while. He's really rolling in the dollars now but the only catch is—they're Chinese dollars!

Leighton left Ohio Wesleyan to go to Shanghai with the United Relief and Rehabilitation agency to help in the huge task of mechanizing Chinese farming, which is nothing more than an ambition he's had since he was a boy over in Pekin, China, his birth-place. (He's the son of the head of the music department at Yenching university in that city.)

He's at work in Shanghai, earning $25,000 per day and drawing a $15,00 per month bonus for his work on the UNARA—AGRHAB. Chinese inflation has reached such a stage that the former Ohio Wesleyan student is having to cut corners to make ends meet on his fabulous salary, and those 15 American dollars look mighty good at the end of the month.

Leighton plans to stay in China until January, 1948, when he expects to return to school at Ohio Wesleyan.

Peacetime Uses for Scientific Advances in War Described

By AUSTIN E. SHOWMAN

…time uses for such wartime developments as the atomic … radar and DDT were among the subjects discussed by Dr. … Owens, executive director of the Ohio State university … foundation, in his address Sunday afternoon before an … of approximately 300 gathered at the First Evangelical …med church for the Mar… …ber of Commerce Sunday … forum.

… fuel for heating pur… …er power, infra-red rays … automatic burglar or fire … and radar for commercial … sea navagation are pos… …of the future, Dr. Owens …

… research foundation di… author and co-author of … articles on science, em… the growing importance … in our everyday lives. … declared "the crash of the … bomb on Hiroshima was … in a figurative sense, by every American and clinched the idea that science is an all important factor in our lives. Even if we did not recognize it earlier certainly we do so as to the future."

Chief Objects

The chief practical objectives to research are improvement of health, creation of new products and more jobs and the betterment of our standard of living," he continued. He pointed to the the uses of new medicines, such as penicillin and sulfa drugs, the insecticide DDT and better vaccines as having "all but conquered such terrible diseases as yellow fever, dysentery, typhus, tetanus, pneumonia and meningitis."

Dr. Owens outlined some of the research projects now being conducted at Ohio State university. They include such experiments as the use of ceramic materials for jet and rocket engines to replace metal parts which will not stand extremely high temperatures, the concentration of orange and other fruit juices so they will keep without being refrigerated and upon addition of water will again taste as freshly squeezed juice, and the pasteurization of eggs to insure their edible qualities.

The speaker described the principles of radar, told of its uses during the war and of its possible uses in peace. He explained radar as "the projection of directed radio waves of short wavelength through space and determining whether they are reflected back to the source like an echo. During the war radar was used to accurately guide planes at night or through clouds and fog. It also was used to control gunfire against invisible enemy ships and planes, to locate surfaced submarines and to identify friendly aircraft and naval vessels, Dr. Owens explained. "Radar should have important peaceful applications on ships to locate other ships, icebergs and shore lines, as well as to determine the ship's location from coded beacons on the shore . . . It may be possible that future collisions of planes with mountains, tall buildings and other planes may likewise be eliminated."

Describes Sniperscope

Another war weapon which has peacetime possibilities is the sniperscope, according to Dr. Owens. The sniperscope is an instrument fitted on the barrel of an Army carbine to enable soldiers to see at night with invisible infra-red light rays. Modification of the sniperscope might be used for automatic burglar or fire alarms, and for police use in detecting crime, since they could observe at night without being seen, Dr. Owens suggested.

Describing the possible uses of DDT he predicted our household comfort should be greatly increased by the use of DDT in reducing or even wiping out such nuisances as flies, and mosquitoes and in controlling malaria.

Further commercial uses for plastics, including nylon, also were discussed.

In describing atomic energy Dr. Owens pointed to its tremendous power. "If one hundred per cent conversion of matter into energy were now possible, one cup of water could be made to light and operate New York City for one year, or one motor car key could drive a small car 70 million miles, or one lead pencil would supply heat enough for a 500-room hotel for 200 years."

Not Ready Yet

Although the application of atomic energy to produce heat and power for industrial processes is possible, it may not prove economical for years or decades, Dr. Owens said. He suggested that with suitable engineering design it is possible that within a few years atomic energy might be tried as a source of power in certain large power stations or for industrial power, or that it might be used experimentally on ships or large submarines where concentrated fuel is desirable.

In concluding, Dr. Owens declared "The accomplishments that have been made are only the beginning. Each development opens up larger fields ahead. To attain our objectives we must have a continuously expanding body of knowledge. To insure this our youth must be better trained for scientific work and for this purpose enlarged and improved facilities and better equipped teachers, as well as the selection and financial support of qualified scientific students should be provided the state and the nation. This applies not only to our country but to all nations. Under these conditions our children will have a chance to live in a far better world than that which we know."

E. E. Holt, superintendent of Marion schools, acted as moderator and introduced the speaker. Science students of Harding, Edison, St. Mary and the county schools were guests of the Chamber's forum committee.

4 Human Hands Found By Pittsburgh Girl

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 9 — Discovery of four human hands in bushes along a suburban road posed a mystery today for police who sought in vain for clues as to where the grisly objects came from and what became of the victims.

The hands, wrapped in a paper bundle, were found by a dog who dropped the package at the feet of his 13-year-old mistress, Joanne Ward, while she was out for a Sunday stroll with three young companions.

County Detective Sam Graham said the hands were those of two men.

Restaurant Employe Surprises Intruder

Wilbur Burnside, an employe of the Silver Inn at 617 Silver street, told police he surprised an intruder when he entered the place Sunday at 9 p. m. Burnside said he came in the front door and heard noises in another part of the restaurant. When he investigated, he said, a young man ran past him and out a rear door. The door had been forced open with a metal bar, Burnside said. Apparently, nothing was taken, although merchandise had been rummaged through, he reported.

When the National Tuberculosis association was organized in 1904, tuberculosis was the leading cause of death in this country. Today it is the seventh cause, but kills approximately 55,000 persons a year.

FAMOUS DIVISIONS NEED PICKED MEN
Will you measure up?

Out in the Far East—in Korea and Japan—the great Army divisions which fought down the hard road to victory in the Orient are now part of a brilliant peacetime team. Their spectacular success adds new luster to battle flags already bright with war-won honors.

Many of these units are now taking in new men. They accept only the best—rugged, keen young soldiers capable of fitting the roles established by men who preceded them.

If you can measure up to the standards required, it is possible for you to join such outstanding units. A three-year enlistment for duty in the Far East enables you to choose the division with which you'll serve after completing your initial training in the U. S.

While serving your country in these fascinating places, you will be provided excellent living facilities. Far Eastern forces are comfortably garrisoned with fine recreational services conveniently near.

Overseas duty also boosts new Army base pay by 20% —a Private makes $90 a month, clear of food, clothing, medical and dental expenses. Your nearest U. S. Army Recruiting Officer can furnish all details.

That's Settled

JOHN L. LEWIS, who is no fool, knows when he's licked. Salvaging what is left of his battered dignity, he has called off the coal strike. He previously said he never called it, but that's incidental. Further trouble now is postponed until the end of next March.

If the chief of the United Mine Workers expected the country to stand up and cheer Saturday afternoon because he admitted he had bulled his way in a disastrous showdown with his government, he will be disappointed. He asked for what he got, which was a good kick in the teeth. Perhaps he learned that more of the same was coming when his conviction for contempt reached the supreme court.

The coal strike came close to insurrection. It was open defiance of the federal government. Lewis thought he could get away with it. But this time he didn't get away with it. Harry Truman called his hand. The government is tired of appeasing labor czars. It has studied the election returns and knows the people were tired of appeasing labor czars too. The election returns now have caught up to Mr. Lewis, who knows when he's licked. Labor's rights do not include the right to dictate to government.

Housing Needs To Be Defined

THE public is led to believe that Wilson W. Wyatt has quit as federal housing expediter because he thought the housing shortage, particularly for war veterans, was an emergency and higher-ups in the Truman administration thought otherwise.

The public thinks Wyatt is leaving the capital sadder but wiser because he got what most balls of fire get when they hit the entrenched interests of Washington—the cold water treatment. In short, the public thinks Wyatt is some kind of a martyr to some kind of a sinister force opposed to giving people decent places to live.

The fact is that Mr. Wyatt is a martyr to worldwide confusion about housing, a term with no clear definition. When he talked about housing, he meant one thing. Others may have been thinking about half a dozen other things. For example, he thought housing was shelter for human beings with no place to live, he wanted to handle it like an emergency. He wanted particularly to use the resources of manufacturers prepared to furnish prefabricated housing which, rightly or wrongly, is regarded by many persons as a substitute.

Mr. Wyatt isn't the first to stub his toe on this thing. Certainly he won't be the last. Housing, both as to quantity and quality, is a dilemma in relativity. In this country at present, housing is inadequate on both scores, relative to what it might be. But also relative to what it might be, it is surprisingly adequate. And to suggest the true extent of the confusion that surrounds the subject, it is questionable whether in 10 years from now anything that Mr. Wyatt did or didn't do will be of the slightest consequence in housing, which will be relative at that time to factors not now in existence.

No More Reconversion

WITH the resignation of John D. Small as civilian production administrator, the reconversion era reaches an official end. In his letter of resignation to the White House, Mr. Small said so—"the industrial transition from war to peace is largely behind us."

It has been a question for some time whether the United States was still engaged in reconversion or something that needed a better title. There was the same kind of misgiving about reconversion as there was between World Wars I and II about postwar and prewar: when did the postwar era end and the prewar era start?

Skeptics sometimes said that the prewar era started on Armistice Day in 1918. That was not strictly true, of course, at least no more true than it would be to say that the nations which fought in World War II began to prepare to fight World War III as soon as World War II had ended. Or perhaps that is too true to be discussed comfortably.

In any event, in the United States reconversion is now officially ended. The official who was in charge of it has joined the procession leaving Washington. There must be a new word for what we are in the midst of. The nation has converted and reconverted. It has mobilized and demobilized.

Did You Know?

The 12,885,518 Negroes in the United States at last census furnished 45.8 of the domestic service, 26 per cent of saw-mill and planing mills works, 24.2 of tobacco factory workers, 20.2 per cent of hotel and lodging place workers.

Cotton duck got its name from the fact that some of the early mills stamped the heavier weight canvas required for ship sails with a picture of a duck. In time all cotton canvas became known as "cotton duck" or just duck.

Even before World War II shooting stopped in either Europe or the Pacific, two million veterans of the armed services in World War II had left uniform in addition to those who died.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

There's Fear Russia's Fine Words May Be Empty.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 — The peace has suddenly turned into phantom of delight, no one here knows what it means — at least no one with any worthwhile official authority, although some suspect a lot. In fact, nearly every one suspects it will turn out like the apparition of Wordsworth to be only "a moment's ornament."

Word could hardly fly higher (the altitude ceiling of phraseology being what it is) than Russia's abandonment of the veto in disarmament inspection. Far above lofty was Molotov's stratospheric reversal of position to embrace peace and actual inspection of armament production—uranium for one thing—everywhere in the world, including strange as it seems, Russia. A foreign diplomat can not even travel around Russia today to see the streets, much less anything secret. He can not ascertain the volume of—say—on and off propaganda production in the USSR, much less the amount of uranium production, gold, airplanes, atom bombs or matchsticks. No one is free to ascertain anything about Russia. For her to open suddenly her unprecedented isolation to world inspection on any subject offers the best verbal prospect for peace yet proposed.

Some Predicting

The common interpretation here is that as soon as any UNO commission starts trying to go to Russia to find out how much uranium there is, the Soviet government will again cloak herself in impenetrable bear hide, hide it in buckets in the cellar, say the venture is too costly, furnish us some statistics her government considers substantial and advise us to believe these or not—or recommend that UNO investigate Spain first, where she actually claimed atom bombs were hidden not so long ago—or the United States, which is rumored to have both 59 and none at all.

But do not be too sure of Russia walking out on this agreement, at least not until she puts our bombs under international management. A few well-advised people say Russia has no bombs and, what is worse, few planes sufficiently efficient to carry any if she ever got one. Her scientific experiments in atomic energy have been typically Russian, that is to say, unsuccessful. Her purge and reorganization of her scientists may not have been effective. If she has no modern armaments of air warfare (she never even had a bombing plane of long range value in the last war) why would she not want disarmament of those who have armaments—at least for a few years until she can get something? And why would she not abandon the veto and keep others from using one, especially others who have armaments, bombs and uranium to protect—and no comparable facilities for hiding same?

How this all will turn out, nobody knows.

Meyer's Resignation

With considerably less delight Eugene Meyer has quit the World bank, saying—although absolutely no one believes him—he intended to resign as soon as he got it started. His explanation was too thin to fool a blind man because he had turned his newspaper exclusively over to a board for operation and had been away only five months or so. Furthermore, no said anything at the time of his appointment to indicate his World bank direction would be temporary.

Some knowing authorities say he found out the bank was not a bank, which most people knew in the first place. It is a loan agency without assets—or money. The nations were to contribute great sums to be loaned (or rather given away on the best terms possible) around the world—but no one has put up any money. A half dozen demands for gifts called loans have been presented by some states, mostly of Communist leanings. It is just possible Meyer discovered the difficulty of giving away money from an empty drawer, or may possibly have questioned the wisdom of capitalism contributing great sums to Communist states (I doubt this last possibility).

Nevertheless there are to be even greater delights.

Winging for a Billion

Russia is now to soar on the wings of her stratospheric words to get $1,000,000,000 in loans from us. The five peace treaties are to be signed and presented to the senate. Not much objection to ratification will be made, except perhaps about the luscious reparations to be collected by Russia. Mr. Byrnes will bring up Germany and Austria as the next step and maybe try for peace about them, while the delight lasts and possibly before Russia gets our money.

All statesmen will practically bust in swelling with good feeling at the lovely apparition of peace they have turned out—the loftly words they can not define, upon which they have built their peace.

Polish Up Golden Rule

This has been designated as International Golden Rule week. John L. Lewis, please note.

How can you have warmth in your heart when theres none in your radiators?

Increasingly, there are indications that the milk of human kindness has clabbered.

More and more countries have gone off the Golden Rule standard. The world family of nations is acting as though it were composed entirely of in-laws.

The present generation seems to have revised the Golden Rule to "Do unto others before they do unto you."

It was five years ago yesterday that we started teaching the Japs the benefits of brotherhood. Must the rest of us also learn the hard way?

Feminists Prepare UN Appeal

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—At the fifth Pan American Conference in 1923 in Chile, some members of the American National Woman's Party beleaguered delegates to start listening to the desires and hopes of the women of their countries.

In 1928, at the sixth conference, held in Havana, only seven women were nominated as spokesmen for their republics. But in Lima, Peru, in 1938 the Inter-American Commission of Women was established.

They were to work for women's rights and asked to submit reports at the ensuing conferences.

In Washington 19 of the 21 republics are represented at the current assembly of the Inter-American Commission of Women. They are readying a document which is aimed to ask many things for their betterment, politically and socially. They expect to draft a report to submit to the UN.

The Commission has already accomplished much in obtaining the right for women to vote and the right to maintain their own nationality after marriage.

Already 10 countries have given women suffrage—the United States, Ecuador, Brazil, Uruguay, Cuba, El Salvador, the Dominican Republic, Guatemala, and Panama. Venezuela voted suffrage for women but only for the Constitutional Assembly.

The right to vote in municipal elections has been granted the women of Chile, Peru, Argentina, Bolivia and Venezuela and of some provinces of Mexico.

President of the Commission is Miss Minerva Bernardino, former delgate from them Dominican Republic. Her permanent residence is now in Washington. She is vice chairman, until February, of the commission on the status of woment at the UN assembly in New York.

Among the prominent women attending the current assembly of the Inter-American Commission of Women here is Senora Ofela Benvenuto of Uruguay, lecturer, writer, and professor in humanities and sciences at the University of Montevideo. She won highest awards from her government and an American publishing house for her book "Jose Mart."

Senora Isabel Sanchez de Urdaneta, wife of the commercial counselor of the Venezuelan Embassy here, has just been named a member of the women's committee of the UN. She is an outstanding educator and founder of kindergartens in her county.

Other delegates include Miss Leontina Cardoso, a great feminist and journalist, former counsel of the Brazilian Embassy at Rome, and Dr. Ofelia Barret of Honduras, who worked for UNRRA in Europe during the war.

Argentina has sent Mrs. Esther Luzuriaga de Desmaras, teacher and writer. She has presented 52 projects to her country's council of education, among which the manual labor school is a fine example.

This Was Really a Tomato "Plant"

By The Associated Press

BROOKLYN—Edward Hughes' "tomato" crop has won the admiration of backyard gardeners from far beyond the limits of his neighborhood. After planting some seeds, Ed worked for weeks because sprouts failed to show. A neighbor decided such zeal deserved reward and surreptitiously planted a new set of seeds in Ed's tomato rows. Soon plans sprang up and Ed was jubilant, boasting about his big tomato plants until they stood more than three feet high and aroused his suspecion. They kept right on growing and when they bloomed at a height of seven feet, Ed had the brightest array of sunflowers in Brooklyn.

A Look at Atomic Future

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9—In order to see the present perspective, it is sometimes well to have a look at the shape of things to come. In the light of the future, for example, the doings of John L. Lewis pale into insignificance beside one entirely obscure fact: Intensive research on very-long-range guided missiles is at last to begin here in the United States. The purpose is to devise a rocket capable of carrying an atomic warhead halfway round the world, and thus, in a final, suicidal triumph of science, to make possible that war between continents which must haunt every informed and imaginative man.

A quantity of misinformation has been spread abroad on this subject. Contrary to common report, the Germans were not ready at the end of the war with a rocket having anything like intercontinental ranges. The German rockets with which the Army and Navy are now experimenting at White Sands, N. M., are simply an improved type of V-2. They cannot carry an effective warhead with reasonable accuracy much farther than 400 miles. At longer ranges, they lose destructive value because too much space and weight must be sacrificed to fuel.

On the other hand, the Germans had begun work on a very-long-range guided missile. Their experience with rocket research had revealed to them the basic principles of construction, and they had learned what experimental equipment was essential. And when the German surrender came, the American booty (the only word that can honestly be used) included the best German brains and the most important experimental equipment. In this we were lucky. The Soviets, for instance, rounded up a good many scientists at the Peenemunde research station, but the Pennemunde equipment had been largely destroyed.

U. S. Gets Brains

The Americans, on the other hand, secured the most experienced and brilliant of the German rocket researchers, who had fled westward before the Soviet advance, and they secured two complete wind tunnels, one for speeds up to 500 miles per hour and one for speeds up to 700 miles per hour, as well as the makings of a much larger tunnel with the fantastic capability of testing missiles or aircraft with speeds up to 1,500 miles per hour.

This last was found, incidentally, in a curious manner. One of the officers charged with collecting booty ran across a gigantic generator, far larger than any he had ever seen, among the stock in an electrical plant. He asked what its use might be, and was told that it was part of the equipment for the 1,500 m.p.h. wind tunnel. The balance of the equipment was then traced down to the industrial plants all over Germany in which it was being manufactured.

The wind tunnels are the heart of the problem. Without such wind tunnels as these, it is impossible to experiment either with very-long-range guided missiles or with aircraft having supersonic speeds. In 1941, the United States built a small high-speed wind tunnel, but there was none in the country fit for the job ahead.

Even with the wind tunnel equipment in hand, much work had still to be done. After prolonged negotiation between the services, plans were laid for the very-long-range missile-supersonic speeded aircraft project (for both problems will be studied at the same installations). The project will be "monitored" by the Air Forces on behalf of the Army, with the Navy and National Advisory Council for Aeronautics participating equally.

Budget-wise, the project will be independent, with its own special appropriation of $150,000,000 to $300,000,000 to be spent over a term of years. Personnel will be recruited impartially from the services, the N.A.C.A. and the universities.

The only point remaining unsettled is location. After some discussion, the idea of relying on an atomic power plant to operate the wind tunnels was discarded. One of the great American waterpower sources will supply the staggering needed volume of electricity, but it is not decided as yet whether it will be the T.V.A., the Columbia River or another. And the problem is difficult since the power volume required is so great that even careful economy will not prevent the project from limiting industrial development in the same area.

Even so, the project is already in shape to be approved by the Army-Navy Joint Research board, which is successfully performing the herculean task of coordinating all war-purpose research under the leadership of Dr Vannevar Bush. Thereafter the project must be recommended by the President and approved by the congress. Nevertheless, one can now assume that the intensive work will begin in the fairly near future, and that within a given number of years—variously estimated from nine to 15—the intercontinental rocket and the aircraft faster than sound will become realities.

It is foolish to be alarmist. Yet it is also difficult not to feel that the scientists have opened Pandora's box, from which nightmares are issuing forth. Some are yet to come, like those described above. Some already exist, like the German radar-proof submarine which will deprive any island area of defense against blockade until a counter-weapon is discovered. And all of them have the same meaning. If the nations now pouring money and man power into research of this type do not somehow find a way to organize "one world," they must eventually prepare themselves for Wendell Willkie's alternative—no world at all.

U. S. Zone Is Paradise for Displaced Persons

[illegible] average [illegible] regular [illegible] has a [illegible] in his heart for the old-[illegible] Negro trooper who groomed [illegible] horse back at Fort [illegible] still calls him "Cap'n" [illegible] the officer may now be [illegible] general.

Add Race Problem.

[illegible] these same officers have told me that Negro troops in the mass, in an occupied country, get in more scrapes, commit more crimes and catch more venereal disease than white troops. They say—a great majority of them—that regardless of the rights and wrongs involved, Negro troops do add a race problem to all their other administrative troubles in Germany.

And the Negro soldier? Naturally he feels differently. He and his family take pride in his service overseas. He may feel also a responsibility to his race as well as his country to serve abroad. And he is likely also to feel he can have more fun, live better, earn more and meet with fewer social snubs.

The average Negro soldier is silently resented by middle-class and high-placed Germans, silently except among themselves or in conversations with white Americans. But the German children of all classes genuinely like him, and the hungry German lower classes, women as well as men, court his acquaintance for the food and cigarets he can give them. Lonely despite his new prestige, the Negro soldier often is the easiest mark for infected German prostitutes.

I talked with several intelligent Negro soldiers about the high venereal rate, and they answered:

"Our own women aren't over here. What can we do?"

Regular army leaders are equally disturbed over the problems posed by the hundreds of thousands of refugees of mixed nationality in the displaced persons camps.

Officers sympathetic to the personal predicament of many of these homeless people still complain that the camps, full of idle men, women and children, are breeding grounds for crime and black market centers.

Small Work for Some.

There is work for some—make-penny work—but not enough, and thousands flatly refuse to work. Many give as their reason that they will do nothing to help rebuild Germany. Yet for political reasons they refuse also to return to their own countries.

And, by organized underground efforts and by individual initiative, they are still pouring into the American zone from the other zones and other countries of eastern Europe. They come because the Americans house and feed them better and there is no political persecution.

And as they swell the camps more weary American officers harden into the prejudice that "they're just a bunch of lazy scamps."

The German people, crowded in their narrowed frontiers, don't want the displaced persons. The American army is tired of its responsibility, too. And the United States isn't opening its borders wide. Nor is any other country.

Army officers complain that except for political pressure they could solve both the problems of Negro troops and displaced persons in Germany with a four-word order:

"Send them all home."

Until this order is given, most regular army officers that I saw feel, American civilians and politicians shouldn't criticize the army for its present position in Germany. Their private wail is:

"We want to get out of the social welfare business."

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Jaundice in Baby

The mother of a new-born infant is quick to be alarmed. Anything the least bit out of the way in the baby's appearance upsets and worries her. Thus, if baby develops a condition known as physiologic jaundice—as one out of three young babies may do—mother's sufferings are likely to be greater than the child's.

For this type of jaundice, though it appears like any other and is characterized by the same signs—a greenish-yellow discoloration of the skin—is harmless and usually clears up without treatment in a week or so. True, baby may be a bit drowsy when the disorder is at its height, and may eat poorly, but when it disappears he will suffer no bad effects.

This does not mean that jaundice in the new-born should ever be neglected or taken for granted. Far from it, because jaundice may be due to other and more serious conditions. For example, it may in some instances be the sign of severe infection which must be dealt with pomplty if the baby's life is to be saved. Such an infection may get into the body through the navel and spread to the liver. The liver becomes enlarged while the veins in the skin of the abdomen are prominent and noticeable. The abdomen is swollen or distended and the child is quite ill. The usual treatment for this condition consists of giving penicillin or one of the sulfonamide drugs depending on the germs causing the difficulty.

Unfortunately, from time to time, a baby may be born with some malformation of the bile ducts. The babies in such cases develop jaundice which usually does not attract attention until after the second week of life.

If the blocking of the ducts is complete, the babies' bowel movements are white in color while the urine is dark, due to the bile in it. Once a diagnosis of this condition is made an operation is usually carried out in an attempt to rebuild the bile ducts and overcome the difficulty.

Prior to the operation vitamin K is given by injection under the skin because when there is no bile secretion this vitamin is not absorbed.

Nothing illustrates better than the various types of jaundice which may occur in the new-born the need for careful medical supervision. The jaundice may mean nothing, but on the other hand it may indicate a serious situation in which life itself is threatened and only careful study by a competent doctor can say which or determine what, in the individual case, is the most effective treatment.

Half of the children born in the United States come from farming areas where slightly over 30 per cent of the national adult population lives.

Social Affairs

A WEDDING of yesterday afternoon was that of Miss Joyce Latham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Latham of Roswell, Okla., and Louis Delmar Hamilton III, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Hamilton of 334 East Center street which took place at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

Candles lighted the rooms for the ceremony read at 4 o'clock by Rev. Howard L. Olewiler, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. To repeat their vows the couple stood before the high windows in the living room banked on either side with formosa and cedar to form a background of greenery for the arrangement of white chrysanthemums and lighted white tapers in tall candelabra. Miss Virginia Grover at the piano played a program of wedding music including "Because," D'Hardelot, "I Love You Truly," Bond, "Estrellita," Ponce, "Intermezzo," Provost, Rubenstein's "Romance," and the wedding march from Wagners "Lohengrin."

The bride chose for her wedding a beige wool suit and carried a white Testament marked with gardenias to match the flowers in her hair. Miss Gail Hamilton of Detroit, cousin of the bridegroom, who was the maid of honor and the bride's only attendant, wore a costume in a fuchsia shade with gardenias in her corsage and in her hair. The bridegroom's brother, Stuart Hamilton of Cleveland, was the best man.

A costume in an autumn mist shade was chosen by Mrs. Hamilton for her sons' wedding and her flowers were chrysanthemums in a burgundy shade. Mrs. A. F. Wike of Cleveland, sister of the bride with whom she has made her home, wore a suit of aqua wool with a corsage of yellow roses.

Decorations in the dining room also were in white and green. White tapers in crystal candelabra lighted the table and the heart-shaped centerpiece was of small white chrysanthemums encircled with greenery. Wedding bells caught with fern were suspended from the chandelier.

Assisting were Mrs. Thomas H. Sonnanstine, Mrs. Carl W. Leffler, Mrs. Ray Gatewood, Mrs. Ray R. King, Mrs. Frank R. Mann, Mrs. A. E. Morrison, Miss Mabel Wheatley, Miss Mary Ann Houghton and Misses Margaret and Catherine Hamilton.

Mr. Hamilton and his bride will make their home in Cleveland where he is enrolled at Cleveland college, Western Reserve university. Mr. Hamilton attended Akron university before entering service in the armed forces. He is a veteran of 91 combat missions with the Ninth Air Force in the European theater of operations serving as a first lieutenant. He was decorated with the Air Medal with 14 oak leaf clusters and the Distinguished Flying Cross, and holds the ETO ribbon with four battle stars.

LINER

a former German craft acquired by the French, leading to speculation whether there might be some connection between the two losses

Accounts Confused

The giant ship's lurch from her moorings was so sudden that accounts of what happened were confused. French line representatives said it was "not sure that it was the break of the Paris which caused the damage

She first sank with a heavy list, but righted herself later with the rising tide, indicating she had retained some buoyancy

This heightened hopes of line officials that the ship could be refloated If not it will be the biggest post-war blow to recovery of French pre-war standing in transatlantic trade

The 49,746-ton Europa was built in 1928 in Hamburg for Nord-Deutscher Lloyd Earlier this year the captured liner was turned over to the French government by the war reparations commission and christened the "Liberte"

U. S. Engineers Called German Ship Unsafe

By The Associated Press

Two experts of the United States maritime commission told the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers in New York Nov 15 that the Europa was unsafe under German operation and her electrical installations constituted a "very severe fire hazard" but said the French were understood to be taking steps to remedy the situation

"All the evidence," their paper said, "points to the conclusion that the vessel was structurally far below American standards and was continued in the North Atlantic service even after the weaknesses became apparent without taking sufficient remedial measures to insure her safety the operators placed reliance on careful operation and seamanship"

Luckless Career

The Europa's career was luckless from the start. She was launched as a North German Lloyd liner at Germany in August 1928 A mysterious $5,000,000 fire delayed her maiden voyage from Bremerhaven to New York until March, 1930. Despite strong headwinds, she set a westward crossing record of four days 17 hours six minutes, beating the Bremen's time by 18 minutes

Later she lost a passenger at sea and disabled a propellor on wreckage Forty thousand dollars worth of jewelry disappeared off her and her first master died Twelve passengers were hurt in a 1936 storm

In the years before the war the ship carried millions of dollars' worth of French gold to the United States In November 1940 the British claimed she had been bombed squarely amidships in a Bremen dock and in August 1941, a United States consul reported she and the Bremen had been wrecked by saboteurs

But when U S troops went into Germany in May 1945 they found her in port in relatively good condition She was put into the Allied shipping pool and became a U. S troopship, transporting as many as 5,000 soldiers homeward at a time

OHIO COAL

ing Co's pit near Athens and Lost Run shaft at New Straitsville the Essex mine at New Straitsville, and the Buckingham Coal Co's mine at Congo.

Operators at four other deep mines said insufficient men had reported for work to resume operations and expressed belief some men may not have received official notification that the strike was ended

Pacifico said he had notified all locals of Lewis' decision to comply with a government issued injunction to mine coal at least until March 31.

The district leader said the "bulk of my membership" would return but predicted a few dissidents who "resent the government's policy in the case" might remain out.

Fine To Be Refunded

Miners in District N said the $1 a day fines assessed by the operators would be refunded Some companies already had deducted the fines in pay statements mailed the miners last Saturday.

Railroads restored some passenger schedules, but said full operations could not be anticipated before Wednesday or Thursday However, some 1,000 Columbus railroaders were recalled yesterday after a layoff caused by strike-induced freight embargoes.

Ted W Brown, secretary of the Columbus Retail Coal Merchants association, said home deliveries would be available probably Wednesday.

Another effect of the strike's end was lifting of dimout regulations, returning the pre-holiday glitter to downtown streets

The Ohio Coal association said it understood all but three mines in the Hocking Valley were resuming production, and that every shaft in West Virginias northern panhandle was reported back at work today

Bombers Deliver Supplies to Survivors of Shipwreck.

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM, Dec. 9—British bombers dropped five tons of food and supplies today to 800 Jews shipwrecked on Syrina island, near the Dodecanese, while en route to Palestine.

The British destroyer Chevron and a minesweeper were cutting through the Mediterranean toward the lonely island, 90 miles northwest of Rhodes. Four Halifax planes carried the relief supplies to the Jews through weather one veteran pilot described as "the worst I ever saw in the Mediterranean."

Flight Lt. Allen Ross, commander of the expedition, said the Jews were sheltered in a valley on the barren island. Their ship was believed to have foundered in high seas Saturday during an attempted dash for Palestine.

The Jewish agency said most passengers were believed rescued. Other reports listed eight as missing.

FARM BUREAU GROUP CONVENES AT 'FRISCO

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 9—An estimated 5,000 farmers from every section of the nation met here today for the 28th annual convention of the American Farm Bureau federation.

Among authorities on farm legislation and agriculture scheduled to address the gathering are Undersecretary of Agriculture N. E. Dodd, Assistant Secretary of State Willard L. Thorp, Senator Richard B. Russell (D-Ga), and Rep. Clifford R. Hope (R-Kas).

Mrs. Ruth Sayre of Indianola, Iowa, chairman of the resolutions committee of the Associated Women of the American Farm Bureau federation, in an interview deplored the lack of educational opportunities for farm children. The women's organization is meeting in conjunction with the federation's annual convention.

"Farm boys and girls don't get the same start and don't go as far as do city kids," she said. "One farm school boy out of 100 graduates from college. In the cities the figure is seven out of 100."

LEWIS

Truman cancelled the talk when he received word the strike was over, but he made no comment.

Swiftly the government stripped away most of the series of emergency orders which had been invoked to save coal. Out went the freight, express and parcel post embargoes, the slash in railroad passenger travel, and—except in a few areas nearly out of fuel—the 21-state dimout. The Capitol Dome glistened under floodlights again.

The solid fuels administration is continuing for a while its controls over soft coal shipments, but condition under which supplies are doled out to essential users have been eased.

Like the rest of the nation, members of congress heaved a sigh of relief over the end of the strike, but some of them made it clear they still intended to press for new labor legislation.

Proposes Legislation

Mentioning Lewis by name, Senator Lucas (D-Ill) proposed that the new congress investigate labor organization to determine whether any of their leaders wields "autocratic power."

Lucas told a reporter he wants to find out "which of these organizations have democratic processes and which are run by one man."

Senator Butler (R-Neb) said Lewis' action "shows good judgment as well as a patriotic spirit," but he added it should not deter congress from passing new labor laws.

Lewis ordered his men back to the mines under terms of the same contract with the government which he declared void Nov. 15—five days before the start of the strike. He said coal production would continue until April 1, but this does not necessarily mean another strike at that time.

Meanwhile, Lewis added, the union "will be willing to negotiate a new wage agreement for the bituminous industry with such parties as may demonstrate their authority to do so, whether an alphabetical agency of the United States government or the Associated Coal Operators."

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 9—The Ohio Dental society today recommended a $50,000,000 investment in the dental health of Ohio's children.

Delegates approved the program at the concluding session of a three day meeting. Cost of the plan would be shared by local, state and federal governments. Other points included training of 1,000 additional denists to expedite treatment of nearly 95 per cent of Ohio's 1,500,000 school children the society said needed dental care.

LA RUE WOMAN INSTRUCTS LIMA NURSERY TEACHERS

Instructs on Religious Education of Small Children.

LARUE—Mrs. Bernard Wright of near LaRue served as instructor in religious education held at the First Baptist church in Lima, with classes each Monday night for six weeks beginning Oct. 21 and closing Nov. 25. Her class was "Guiding Beginners in Christian Growth" for nursery and kindergarten teachers of Lima.

Former teacher in the county schools and teacher in the nursery department of the LaRue Methodist church school the past five years, Mrs. Wright was recommended as one of the training school teachers by Rev. Warren Bright, pastor of Grand Avenue Methodist church in Lima and former LaRue pastor.

Mrs. Wright began teaching in the church nursery department here when the class was organized in 1941 by Rev. and Mrs. Bright. The class was held at the parsonage until 1944 when it was moved into a classroom at the church. Teaching in this department with Mrs. Wright is Mrs. William Trikaft, who has also served during the five years. The class has an enrollment of approximately 25 pupils of ages two to five. Other young mothers have assisted with the work at times.

Financial support for local nursery room equipment is given by the Friendship class. Other contributors have been the Mary Martha circle and the general W. S. C. S.

Taft Weighs Taking Committee Leadership

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 — Senate Republicans waited today for Robert A. Taft to decide whether he wants to be head man on the taxing or labor committees before distributing the chairmanship plums they plucked in the November election victory.

There was widespread belief that the Ohioan will pick the labor spot in a decision some of his colleagues think may be tied in with his aspirations for the 1948 GOP presidential nomination. The labor committee also concerns itself with education, health and kindred subjects.

If Taft thus elects to concentrate on that field, the chairmanship of the tax-handling finance committee may go to Senator Millikin (Colo).

Mackenzie Calls Stalin's Health Vital to World

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Those rumors that Russia's Premier Stalin is a very ill man certainly give pause for serious consideration.

To be sure, they haven't been substantiated in any way. On the contrary, a Soviet embassy spokesman in London yesterday said Stalin "is in the best of health." Eddie Gilmore, AP chief of bureau in Moscow, also stated three days ago: "I am reliably informed that there is no basis for reports published in Turkey that Generalissimo Stalin is 'seriously ill'. Stalin is taking a vacation just as he took a vacation at this time last year."

Dewitt Mackenzie

Still the very fact that these reports are prevalent challenges us to speculate on what their significance would be to the world if they were true. We get one interesting slant from John M. Hightower, AP diplomatic correspondent, reporting the Big Four foreign ministers' council proceedings in New York. He says:

"Whether Stalin is in failing health, as Turkish reports say and Moscow and London sources deny, is a question which top officials here appear unable to answer. What they do know is that for months he has stayed in the background, while Foreign Minister Molotov and other officials took the limelight. This has led to the widely accepted conclusion among top western diplomatic officials here that if Stalin is not in ill health he certainly is becoming the prophet and philosopher of Soviet Communism rather than its daily director. In either case it is assumed that political power in Moscow is shifting to new hands and that even though change be most orderly, Soviet leaders are anxious that it should come off in an atmosphere of world calm."

Called Logical Wish

Well, that's logical enough. But what happens when Stalin completely relinquishes the reins, as he must do sometime? That's the vital question for the rest of the world. We have no ordinary situation here. For more than a score of years Stalin has been the unchallenged head of a totalitarian dictatorship. His word has been law in a nation covering a sixth of the globe's land surface and having a population of almost 200,000,000.

Whether you admire him or dislike him, the fact remains that Stalin is—or has been—one of the most powerful leaders the world ever has known. Whatever strength Russia has developed since the revolution has been due mainly to him. He gave her industrial power; he created a huge army, and he himself was actual commander-in-chief of the Soviet forces during the late war. He has dictated Soviet foreign affairs, and he is given credit for having directed the unceasing crusade to communize the world.

Who Takes Over?

Who takes over that job? Those who have been worried and fearful because Stalin was in power will find a bigger anxiety in getting an answer to that, or so it strikes me. What single individual is capable of stepping into the Generalissimo's shoes and keeping an iron hand on that great Russian machine which reaches across two continents?

Of course there are capable leaders in Russia. Foreign Minister Molotov is one of them and he seems to stand next to Stalin. The two are old Bolshevists who have worked together since their youth. But even exceptional ability isn't enough to fill Stalin's job. It takes genius. Maybe Molotov is a genius. I wouldn't know.

However, what happens if, say, half a dozen ambitious and equally capable men are looking to take over command when Stalin relinquishes it? What happens inside Russia, and how will that affect the outside world?

One can envisage several possibilities—some good, some bad. Only time will give us the answer. But it won't be easy to replace Stalin without far-reaching effects both at home and abroad.

O-STRIKE ACT OUGHT BY U. S.

Pact in Vital In- in Wake of Coal Victory.

Associated Press

ON, Dec. 9—The sned for an iron- edge in key in- n the wake of its victory over John L. Lewis in the coal strike.

Officials opened the [illegible] in the hope that the administration's handling of the mine shutdown might persuade other [illegible] to seek peaceful settlements of labor disputes in vital industries or risk painful punitive measures.

The initial no-strike pledge effort was directed at the public utility field. Representatives of unions and management in the gas, power, light and municipal transportation industries were summoned to a meeting to consider a plan for voluntary arbitration of disputes without resort to strikes.

The conference was arranged by a labor department advisory committee composed of representatives of the AFL, CIO, National Association of Manufacturers and U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

Additional "peace" meetings in other industries where strikes could imperil the national economy are planned soon by the committee which functions under auspices of the labor department.

Some labor leaders conceded privately that the administration's stand against Lewis may discourage another round of strikes in the steel, automobile and similar major industries which have contract agreements expiring in the next few months.

These leaders noted that as long as the Smith-Connally war labor disputes act remains in effect, President Truman has the power to seize plants or industries where strikes are in progress or threatened.

Ohio Basketball Players Reach Mid-Season Tempo This Week

By DON STULL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ohio's college basketball tossers, playing what is perhaps their heaviest schedule in history, reach a mid-season tempo this week with a 46-game program slated for the next six evenings.

Twelve quintets open their 1946-47 campaigns this week, joining 25 others already under way in a season calling for more than 500 games before the final whistle next March 8.

The heavy firing will leave only one team—Ashland's Eagles—to begin action. The Eagles open a week from Tuesday against Denison.

In the first fortnight Bowling Green State's Falcons got off to a good lead in the race for overall state honors with five straight victories and a better than a point-and-a-half a minute offensive record. The Bee-Gees, in the midst of their busiest season (32 games), play five more this week including two doubleheaders.

Findlay Presses Closely

Not far behind the Falcons in the early stages are the Findlay Oilers, who chalked up three straight and averaged better than one tally every 60 seconds. The only other team to produce more than one victory is John Carroll which bumped off Case and Fenn in its only two outings.

A dozen conference tussles are offered on the week's program—10 in the Ohio conference and two in the middle wests newest college league, the five-member Mid-America conference. Ohio university, which inaugurated the new loop's activities with a 66-39 triumph over Wayne of Detroit last week, meets Cincinnati Friday and Western Reserve Saturday in a pair of conference engagements that figures to help Ohio U. enlarge its lead.

Five-Way Tie

With only nine of the Ohio conference's 21 members in action thus far, the league leadership is locked up in a five-way tie among teams which have one victory apiece. These are: Findlay, Akron, Capital, John Carroll and Kent State. Among the leaders, only Capital, John Carroll and Kent State are slated for action against league foes this week. John Carroll meets Baldwin-Wallace and Kent State tangles with Case Friday. Capital plays at Hiram Saturday.

Among those teams opening their campaigns this week are the Toledo Rockets, who are switching from football to basketball in the brief space of three days. The Rockets wrote finis to the Buckeye pigskin program Saturday with a 21-12 triumph over previously unbeaten Bates of Maine in the first Glass Bowl game at Toledo. The Rocket cagers open against Assumption of Windsor, Ont., Canada Tuesday and entertain Montana State Thursday.

LA RUE INDIANS TAKE M'MILLEN 40 TO 37

LA RUE—In a game that furnished excitement all the way, the LaRue Indians defeated McMillen Feeds of Marion 40 to 37 on the LaRue hardwood Saturday night. With LaRue leading by three points and a minute to go, Ferrin of McMillen fouled out leaving only four players to finish the contest as the visitors had only six players and Lehner had already gone to the showers via the foul route. Glen Dunkin, LaRue guard, also left the game on personals.

The game was bitterly contested and neither team ever held more than a five point lead. McMillen led at the half 16 to 14. Glen Shellhorn, expert long shot of the visitors, was the game's leading point maker with seven field goals and three foul shots for 17 points. Dennison led the winners with 11 points.

Saturday night LaRue will entertain the fast quintet representing Stones Grill in the Y. M. C. A. league. A junior high school game will open activities at 7:30.

Browns Set Scoring Mark But May Lose Services of Groza

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—The Western division champion Cleveland Browns ended their All America conference football schedule by establishing a circuit scoring record but Coach Paul Brown's crew may be without the services of Lou Groza, their top scorer, for the championship tilt with the New York Yankees, eastern division winners, Dec. 22.

Carried Off Field

Groza, who also leads the loop in scoring, was carried off the Ebbets field turf with a leg injury in the third quarter yesterday as the Barons were routing the Brooklyn Dodgers, 66-14.

Before Groza left the gridiron, he had boosted his point total to 85 by booting a field goal and four conversions.

The Browns who earlier in the week had trounced Miami, 34-0, piled up a 28-0 halftime lead and then crunched over 17 points in the third heat and 21 in the final to break the former mark of 62 points rung up by the Los Angeles Dons when they trounced the Buffalo Bisons, 62-14 a week ago.

Cleveland also gained 358 yards through the air to eclipse the former figure of 344 established by the Dons.

Graham Is Big Gun

Otto Graham was the big gun in the Browns attack, completing seven of ten passes including two touchdown heaves for 148 yards to pass Brooklyn's Glenn Dobbs for the circuit lead in total yards gained with 1,834 to Dobbs' 1,699. A leg injury kept Dobbs out of the game.

In the only other game, the San Francisco 49ers, clinched second place in the west by battering Los Angeles, 48-7.

Frankie Albert pitched three touchdown passes to pace the 49er attack as they rolled to three six-pointers in the first quarter, one in the third and three more in the last.

The Yanks will close out their regular season tonight at Miami.

HARDING AT BUCYRUS TOMORROW NIGHT

Prexies Out To Scalp Redmen After Bexley Defeat.

In an attempt to recuperate from last Friday's defeat at Bexley Harding's Prexies will go to Bucyrus tomorrow night.

Both teams have a record of a win and a loss. Harding opened with a 38 to 30 win over Delaware Willis and then dropped one 53 to 33 to Bexley. Bucyrus in their first game absorbed a 48 to 36 beating from St. Mary and Friday night downed Tiffin Columbian 28 to 17.

Harding and Bucyrus have been playing one another for many years, Bucyrus being one of the former members of the NCO league. In recent years Harding has not found the club tough although the Redmen will occasionally spring an upset.

Bucyrus has an experienced team and in their first game looked like a club which would improve as the season continued. When they meet Harding they will probable be stronger than when they met St. Mary, which could make the contest a close one. The Redmen have two players who are distinct scoring threats. They are Cress and Gallent. Gallent was high for his squad against the Marion Irish and Friday night Cress was high scorer against Tiffin Columbian.

Harding which hopes to do as well as St. Mary against this same opponent, held a workout Saturday after the Bexley game and will wind up preparation for the contest with drills tonight at the Edison gym.

The Lima Central Junior Varsity won the preliminary from Galion's Jayvees, 36-26.

Delaware Willis plays at Galion Tuesday night in the first home game for the Tigers.

ST. MARY IN FIRST HOME TILT TUESDAY

Irish Entertain Columbus Rosary at Edison Gym.

St. Mary will play their first home game tomorrow night on the Edison floor against Columbus Rosary. Rosary's record is three wins and one loss while St. Mary has one for one. There will be two games, the reserve contest to get underway at 7:30 and the varsity to follow at 8:30.

The Irish will have had more than a week in which to practice during which time Coach Fetter has been trying to keep them at the level they were in beating Bucyrus. He has a team with three players who can be relied on to hit for a fair number of shots and the other two starters may prove themselves to be capable as the season gets under way. Boys chalking up the most number of points against Bucyrus were Dick Drake, Dick Schuler, and Jim Moloney. Schuler is the only letterman in this group. The other starters are Pat Bray and Bob Stuber. Bray was a regular with St. Mary last season and Stuber won his letter at Jackson, Ohio.

Columbia Rosary, a team which believes that the most effective system is the one that works at the time, has two lettermen back from last season's squad and is reputed to have no great height but plenty of speed and aggressiveness.

Friday night St. Mary will open play in the Mid-State league, entertaining Marysville, last season's champ.

Well-Satisfied Baseball Men Set Up New Executive Gro

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9—As the smoke cleared from hotel lobbies, baseball delegates scattered for home, well-satisfied today with the results of last week's major-minor powwows.

No. 1 enthusiasm was the new executive council, empowered to suspend rules and take quick action in vital baseball matters between annual meetings.

All concerned were happy that a new major-minor agreement was adopted after three years of bickering.

New Prosperity Seen

The minors seemed convinced they were embarking on a new wave of prosperity under George Trautman, elected successor of Judge W. G. Bramham as president of the National association.

Bramham's blast at gambling somewhat ruffled their serenity, but most delegates felt the new council could cope with the betting element. After all, didn't Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler himself say public confidence had never been higher?

Chandler heads the executive council, which will include Trautman and three other minor league executive boardmen, presidents Ford Frick and Will Harridge of National and American leagues, one owner from each major loop, and—where player interests arise—two big league players.

Trade winds blew hot and cold, mostly cold. The general feeling was that the groundwork was laid for future big deals, but actual transactions were few. Outstanding were:

New York Yankees' pitchers Al Gettel and Gene Bearden and outfielder Hal Peck for Cleveland Indians' second sacker Ray Mack and catcher Sherman Lollar.

Sale of Dutch Leonard, veteran Washington hurler, to the Ph

The Boston Braves buying pitcher Red Barrett from Louis Cardinals.

All-time record-holder for games caught, Al Lopez, sold out of the National for the first time in his care Pittsburgh to Cleveland for outfielder Gene Woodling.

DR. WIANT, MISSIONARY TO CHINA, ON PROGRAM

One of Pre-Christmas Services Held in Epworth Chapel.

The first of a series of pre-Christmas Sunday evening services was held at Epworth Methodist church in the service chapel rooms Sunday night. Dr. B. S. Wiant, missionary to China, led an "international carol sing" and displayed Chinese Christian artists' conceptions of the Christmas story from the Bible, and a golden bell from the "Altar of Heaven" at Peking. The altar of the chapel was decorated with Christmas greens and candles.

Mrs. E. N. Hale accompanied the singing of carols from various lands, and Mrs. Wiant, wife of Dr. Wiant, sang two carols including a Chinese Christmas carol.

Dr. Wiant, a close friend of Dr. V. E. Busler, pastor of Epworth church, and a relative of the Wiant family here, has been professor of music in a Chinese university a number of years. He illustrated the contribution to the world's Christmas heritage by the display of the Chinese paintings of the nativity scenes, in addition to the carols the Chinese have composed, and told the audience that now even non-Christian stores in the cities are beginning to decorate for the Christian Christmas season.

An unusual and a rare possession of Dr. Wiant is the 200-year-old golden temple bell which he showed to the audience.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

That It Is A
Temptation!

No doubt about it: the open road, and a responsive car, make a combination which seems to call for speed . . . and more speed. But excessive speed, even on the open road, is dangerous; for your own sake, take it easy!

The difference between a safe speed means only a matter of minutes at your destination, and it's seldom indeed that minutes are so precious that they're worth the risk that high driving speeds always entail.

CUSTOMERS BATTLE TO PURCHASE STOCKS

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—Inspired by Saturday's coal truce, customers battled for stocks in the forepart of today's market although the melee was eventually quelled by profit cashing which by midday, substantially trimmed most early advances of 1 to 6 points.

Demand was so heavy shortly after the opening that the ticker tape for half an hour ran as much as 2 minutes behind floor transactions as blocks of 1,000 to 20,000 shares changed hands.

In the forward push were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Eastman Kodak, American Telephone, Great Northern and Western, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, Kennecott, International Harvester, Du Pont, Johns-Manville, American Smelting, Westhouse and General Electric.

Bonds emulated stocks. Commodities generally faltered after a forenoon bulge.

Fire Chief Warns Against False Alarms

Fire Chief Owen A. Sifritt gave warning today to persons turning in false alarms. "I don't know why people do such things," he declared. "They don't realize the danger they cause to firemen and others." The chief's declaration came after the fire department answered two false alarm telephone calls Saturday afternoon within an hour of each other. One called the department to a Fies avenue residence and the other to a Patterson street address. Persons at the homes disclaimed any knowledge of the calls. Chief Sifritt said the first call was apparently made by a middle-aged woman and the second by a child.

Programs on the Air

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 9—Washington, particularly the quarters of the federal communications commission, today is replacing New York as the arena for color television. Arena is right, for in it is taking place a hearing that may turn out to be the final round in the radio industry's two-year fight over this development.

In one corner are CBS and its supporters; in the other RCA, NBC and their backers. In the ringside seats are most of the country's color experts. Neither side is displaying any flying fists, but is relying primarily on highly technical phraseology to put over various points.

The thing that brought this climax is the application of CBS to FCC asking for establishment of operating standards to provide for commercial color on the higher frequencies of 480 to 20 megacycles, at present classified as experimental.

The whole dispute has been going on since April, 1944, when CBS proposed the introduction of color ahead of black and white, now beginning to reestablish itself as a program service after a hiatus for the war.

Most of the argument finally has settled down to a division over whether color standards be set up with the system developed by Dr. Peter C. Goldmark of CBS, using a motor-driven color disc, or that recently demonstrated by RCA, employing an all-electronic color-tube method. It is the work of Ray D. Kell and associates.

CBS contends that color is ready now; RCA that much more research, at least four years, is needed.

This, then, is the basic question the commission must decide.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

I KNEW what keen disappointment must be Harry Underwood's, giant man of action, at being left behind to take charge of the farmhouse while my father, 'Mr K', Dr Twitchell, Katharine and myself went to the rescue of 'Mr X' so foully dealt with by the masquerading desperado the farmhouse force had just outwitted and captured.

But he is a good soldier, and as he went out of the room with my father, I, close behind them on my way to Katharine, heard his cheery response.

"That's all right, Chief. Somebody has to keep the home fires burning, and in this case, I'd rather be near Lillian and Marion, anyway."

"You're not fooling me, lad," my father said heartily, "but I knew you'd be game, as you always are, my boy."

"Thank, Chief," Harry responded, and then as I reached my own room and dashed in for my hat, coat and bag, they went on to my father's wing, and I heard nothing more.

I looked around my room wondering if there were anything helpful I could take with me. I knew that Dr Twitchell had his physician's bag with him and that Katharine had her complete nursing kit, but with the thought that extra bandages or restoratives might be needed, I took my Red Cross first aid kit from the closet and went out of the door again, turning toward my father's wing to ask Katharine what she needed, in response to my father's injunction.

Near the Door

I met her only a few feet from her own door. She was fairly racing down the corridor, and without a word I turned and ran with her to her door and through it.

"What can I do to help you?" I asked. "I can see Father has told you."

"Only that Dr Twitchell and I are needed at once for a man who has been buried alive," she said. "Here!"

She thrust some articles into my hands as she turned to her closet.

"Please put those into my bag, the professional one," she said, as she dived into the closet, coming out an instant later with the long cape cloak which she wears over her uniform, when summoned in haste, as she was now, and with a small hat clapped on her head. I knew that her cap was folded neatly and tucked into her pocket, ready for instant donning when she should go on duty.

She took up her equipment and looked approvingly at mine.

"Good for you!" she said. "We may not need it, but one never knows. Which way do we go?"

"Down stairs to the lower hall," I answered, and putting her hand through my elbow, she began to talk prison fashion as we hurried along the corridor and down the stairs.

"Is it permitted to inquire 'what all the shootin's fer'?" she murmured.

"A spy impersonating an F B I man, 'Mr X,' who had been posing as a Nazi agent, came here tonight, demanding Hugh and Lee Chow for a few hours' interview," I murmured back hurriedly. "Father and the rest trapped him and learned the from Charlie Kent that the real 'Mr X' had been buried alive by his double, dug up by Charlie, and left in his garage, to which place we are now traveling."

"Bad, very bad," she commented. "Not much chance to do anything, I'm afraid. Do you know how long he was underground, or whether he was unconscious when they buried him'—or—"

"I don't know anything about his condition," I murmured back hurriedly, "except that Charlie Kent, the taxi driver who rescued him, said his chances were about fifty-fifty."

Better Than Expected

"That's better than I expected," she said, and we heard the voices in the hall below.

"I'll give you the background later," I said, keeping my voice for her ear alone, and then we were in the lower hall, where my father, Dr Twitchell and 'Mr K', all in out-door garb, were patiently waiting for us.

"I trust we haven't kept you," Katharine said apologetically as we came into view.

"On the contrary, you are wonderfully prompt," my father said. "We just reached here ourselves and we have to dispose of this before we can leave the house."

The prisoner's snarling voice held terror now. I knew because of the word 'dispose.'

"What—what are you going to do?" he asked raucously.

"The atomic bomb, the rocket, the new horrors of bacteriological warfare have multiplied the chances that force will destroy alike both the victim and the aggressor, the just and the unjust."—William O Douglas, Associate Justice of the Supreme court.
